MP Company wins Army Corrections Command award

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan.— The winner of this year's BG Thomas F. Barr Award competition is a Fort Leavenworth company.

The Soldiers of the Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 40th Military Police Battalion, 15th Military Police Brigade won the award for fiscal year 2012. HHC was up against 13 other companies, including companies stationed in Korea and Germany.

The mighty Titans are led by 1st Lt. Michael Imdieke and 1st Sgt. Britt Cogan.

Winning the FY-12 BG Thomas F. Barr Award is a testament to the dedication and commitment of the Soldiers and families of the HHC, 40th MP Bn over the past year. During the fiscal year, the phenomenal Officers, NCO and Soldiers of Titans, returned home from a very successful deployment in support of Operation New Dawn and then transitioned into outstanding performance and support to the United States Disciplinary Barracks. Not only were the Titans extremely successful as a unit, but numerous Soldiers were recognized for notable individual accomplishments as well.

Winning the BG Thomas F. Barr Award is a significant accomplishment that would not have been possible without the dedication of the entire Titans team. Congratulations to the Officers, NCOs, Soldiers and families of the HHC, 40th MP Bn for this monumental achievement!

Congratulations also go out to this year's first runner up from the HHC, 705th MP Bn and second runner up from Joint Base Lewis McChord HHC, 508th MP Bn.

The Evaluation Board considered nominations on the basis of mission performance, major accomplishments, and significant achievements of the unit and members of the unit for the period 01 October 2011 - 30 September 2012. Choosing the best among these impressive nominations was not an easy task. Each unit who submitted a package should be proud of their organization's contributions to the Army Corrections Command, the Regiment and the U.S. Army over the past year.
